Huron County News: From our own of servation, we estimate that about one-half of those burned out through the county, aided by relief, have new houses up and are occupying them. Others bave lumber on the groun and ere winter arrives will have shelter of their own. A few have made other arrange ments for the winter, and postpone building until next season, some of these being anxious to seil. These houses are, with rare exceptions, small and rough—to be replaced with something better when good times come again to their owners-and are either of log or rough boards placed endways. Of those occupied many are incomplete, showing daylight clear through them, and some have only the earth for a floor, but this will doubtless be remedied soon. Considerable sickness has resuited and is prevailing because of the damp-ness and exposures, but altogether it is a mat-ter for thankfulness and congratulation that the calamity has been so well overcome within the time. The people generally are hopeful of their outure and doing their best to help themselves, though, of course, to this there

HOW CORWIN GOT A MONUMENT. 'Is there a monument over Tom Corwin's grave yet?" was Col. Ingersoll's telegraphic reply to an invitation to lecture in Lebanon, Ind., last winter. "No, sir," answered the old gentleman who was acting as secretary of the lecture association; and before he left the telegraph office the operator handed him a message which read:

I would not lecture in your old town for half of it. ROBERT G. INGERSOLL. Corwin's grave is on the crest of a little knoll on the east side of the town cemetery at Lebanon. The remains of his wife lie on one side of him and those of his son on the other. Standing over them one can see miles away across rich valleys and fertile hillsides, the scene of more than one of Corwin's famous speeches. Back in the valley daughter, the latter lame and below the average in intellect, and with a complexion as dark as her father'sstill reside in the old mansion near the cemetery. Corwin died in 1865 in Washington, and nearly every man, woman and child in Warren county flocked to his funeral when his remains were taken home. They buried him with great pomp, and then began to talk about a monument. The family thought the county ought to erect it, and the commissioners said it was plainly the duty of the family. Nothing was done by either until Ingersoll's message fell like a hot shot, and turned the town upside down. Corwin's son-in-law, a Cincinnati lawyer, named Sage, then ordered a Quincy shaft 13 feet high, and it has just been put in place.

CITY.

(Boston Herald.)

For some time past there has been quite a degree of excitement in our city. What commenced as a quiet ripple on the surface of popular attention has developed into a storm f enthusiasm, and everywhere and on every one's tongue is heard the name of all this unusual commotion. We say unusual for it is certainly out of the common order of events for any remedial agent to so capture the feelings and good will of our citizens. Yet St. Jacobs Oil has won its way into the confidence and homes of thousands of Bostonians who can and do cheerfully certify to its wonderful efficacy; and not they only but others, as the subjoined will show:

Our neighbors, too, are not unmindful of the debt they owe the Old German Remedy. Edgar T. Page, Esq., Pruggist, writes us from Chicopee Falls that Mr. Albert Guenther, under Wilds' Hotel, has used that remarkable remedy, St. Jacobs Oil, for a severe case of rheumatism, and it cured him as if by magic. For the week ending Oct. 15, as for the preceding two weeks, intermittent fever is shown to be the most widely prevalent disease. There has been a constant increase in the prevalence of remittent fever and rheumatism. Consumption, diphtheria, scarlet fever, diarrhoea, bronchitis, and typo-malarial fever are reported by about the same per cent. of observers as in the two preceding bulletins; while dysentery, cholera infantum, and cholera morbus have steadily decreased in prevalence. No small-pox is reported in Michigan.
